Option 1: Veggie of the Year Sponsorship

Sponsoring the Veggie of the Year competition is a feel-good way to support our mission to inspire kids to eat their vegetables! Starting with the September 1 kick-off of Food Literacy Month, ten seasonal vegetables will be voted on by the public and our food literacy kids. We hold an event at school where a team of local restaurant chefs present the veggies to students to taste and vote for their favorite. Community members also attend and cheer on the students. The winning vegetable will be featured throughout the year.

Option 2: Matching Donor

Let us leverage your donation! Your support of Food Literacy Center reaches Sacramento's children, while also creating an ever-widening circle of donors for food literacy in the community. During our three-week membership drive, our volunteer fundraising teams will promote your company across social media as they ask friends and family to donate, telling them that your company will match these gifts dollar-for-dollar. Each team will consist of 5-10 community members, including a local chef, a media personality, and a social influencer. Each team of crowdfunders is setting their fundraising goal at $5,000, so sponsors opting for this opportunity are being asked to also commit at the $5,000 level.

We'll ask the community to match dollar-for-dollar until we reach our goal!
