What is the Food Literacy “Fruit-to-Root” Fair? In partnership with America’s Farm-to-Fork Capital, Raley’s, the Sacramento Public Library, & NeighborWorks, the Food Literacy Center presents our 5th annual Food Literacy Fair and Sacramento’s first zero-waste farmer’s market! The event runs from 9:00 am-12:00 pm on Saturday, September 12th. This year’s theme and focus is “Fruit-to-Root”, surrounding themes of food waste, drought, sustainable farming, and the future. As vendors for this event, we ask that you participate and adhere to our goal of zero-waste by finding alternatives for paper or disposable products. Be creative! We are encouraging attendees and vendors to bring reusable plates, flatware, and décor.

Booth Information:

All vendors will be assigned a 10’x10’ plot for their booth. Food Literacy Center will not be responsible for providing any equipment for the set-up, display, or break-down of your booth. For this event, we ask that all organizations provide an interactive and engaging aspect to your booth. We would like to avoid the conventional “flyers and poster” set up.

Please, briefly, describe your booth’s activity:

Will your booth be distributing anything: ___ Yes ___ No

If yes, what will you be distributing: _____

Thank you so much for applying to be a part of our Fruit-to-Root Food Literacy Fair! If you have any further questions or concerns please contact our Volunteer & Outreach Coordinator at Hana@foodliteracycenter.org or (916) 476-4766. We’re eggplant excited to work with you!
